When young learners are given the tools to communicate across cultures, remarkable things happen — and the Grade 3 students at Cedar Hill Preparatory School in Somerset, NJ are proof of exactly that.

This year, Cedar Hill Prep's third grade Spanish students competed in the National Spanish Challenge, a prestigious nationwide competition that tests language proficiency, vocabulary, and comprehension among elementary-aged students. The results were outstanding — with the majority of the class earning Bronze Ribbon recognition for Outstanding Achievement, including twenty students who achieved a perfect score of 60 out of 60.

For a school rooted in the philosophy of the IB Primary Years Programme, the results come as no surprise. At Cedar Hill Prep, language learning is not treated as a standalone subject — it is woven into a broader commitment to developing globally-minded, confident communicators who appreciate and respect the world beyond their own experience.
