

Mark Moliterno

Bass-baritone

MARK MOLITERNO, bass-baritone, is an accomplished professional opera singer, voice teacher, yoga teacher, IAYT-certified Yoga Therapist, workshop leader, and author. He is considered a thought-leader in the area of 21st Century vocal pedagogy, a master teacher of both singing and classical yoga, and a specialist in helping people understand and overcome physical and energetic blockages to their authentic voices.

Mr. Moliterno holds the BM and MM degrees in Voice and Opera from the Oberlin Conservatory of Music where his teacher and mentor was the famous vocal pedagogue, Richard Miller. He subsequently continued his formal musical studies at Rutgers University, the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, the Britten-Pears School for Advanced Musical Study in Aldeburgh, England, and the Hochschule für Musik, Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria.

His extensive performing career has taken him to many countries in a variety of leading operatic roles and as a concert soloist and recitalist. Mark currently maintains his performing activity in the recital and concert repertoires. He is a long-standing member of the voice faculty at Westminster Choir College in Princeton, NJ, and also maintains private voice and yoga therapy studios in New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. Additionally, Mark is a faculty member for Westminster's CoOPERATIVE program and High School Vocal Camps in the summers.

Mark Moliterno is the originator and founder of YogaVoice®, a unique program which combines several traditions of Yoga philosophy and practice with Systematic Voice Technique to develop authenticity and wellness in the art of personal communication. A sought-after clinician, he presents YogaVoice® workshops at professional conferences and gatherings internationally. Mark has published articles in YogaLiving Magazine, The Journal of Singing, is co-author of The Musician's Breath, and is the author and featured instructor of The Musician's Breath Yoga DVD. His work, specifically related to overcoming performance anxiety, was featured in an article in the May 2014 Yoga Journal magazine, entitled, "How to be Fearless". Having completed more than 1200 hours of formal study in yoga teaching and yoga therapeutics, in 2016 Mark became one of the first yoga professionals in America to receive the credential, "IAYT-certified Yoga Therapist", from the International Association of Yoga Therapists.

Mark Moliterno is a member of the Yoga Alliance, the International Association of Yoga Therapists, and the Performing Arts Medicine Association. www.theyogavoice.com
